A Song of Springfield

Now raise a song for Springfield,
Let hearts and voices blend
To celebrate her praises,
Whose fame shall have no end;
While fellowship makes holy,
While eager hope elates,
And visioned men come thronging
Her spacious gates.

May victory descending
E'er keep her banners bright,
And dye with new effulgence
Our rare Maroon and White;
Bringing fairness with thee winging,
And energy to dare;
Together shall ye guardian
Her fields so fair.

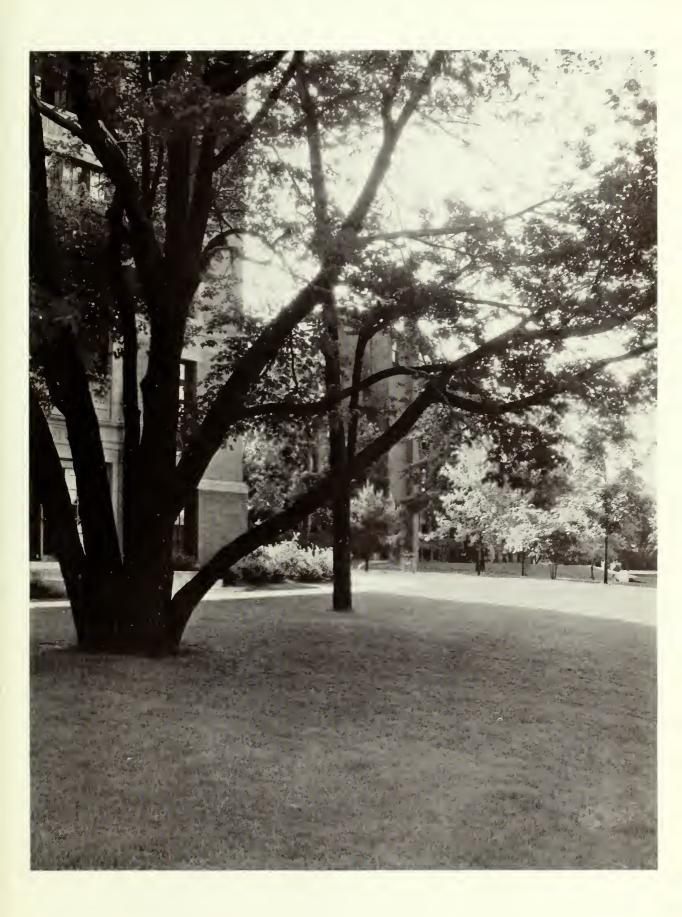

Earthwide may happy boyhood
Lift high his wond'ring eyes,
Strong youths bring back the vision
Of earthly paradise;
To follow truth to wisdom,
Nor faint thro falt'ring fears—
Be this thy task, O Springfield,
Thru' all the years.

Pe Class Chronicle

O goeth the ancient chronicle that there came to the hearing of a knightly knight, one Sir Senyoure, the tayle of a maiden fair, Dipaloma yclept, forced in durance vile by an ogre of the name Fatcully. The maiden, bereft of all assistance, was imprisoned in the famed citadel of Sprynfildie, and guarded against all approach by the fierce Kyng Stryt Seeartee. On hearing this tayle, the knightly Senyoure sware a great oath that nothing would hinder him in rescuing this fair damsel reputed to be of great influence in certayne foreyn laynds. So swaring, he buckled on his golden spurs, took up his shield, hugged a couple of scullery wenches for good luck, and sallied forth. Before him lay the dark and fearsome wilderness of Campys, so called because it is infested by vicious murderyers known as Sofymures and Upurclasmyn. But Sir Senyoure was stout of heart and feared naught, yet as he approached the massive and forbidding walls, his heart would fain have lain down and quyt. But summoning up his courage, he put hys hands to hys lips and yeld a myghty word, "Rayn!" Immediately from an upper wyndoukh of ye castle, a paper bag fylled with worter, came hurtling down upon the plumed heade of the knight, drenching him thorowly. "What ho!" he cryd indignantly, "dost thynk

I am a Saturday knight?" but now the portcullis of ye castle oped ponderusly, and Sir Senyoure, his corpus, but not his ardor dampened, rode hastyly therein. No armed knight assailed hym, but a fair damsel, who by dint of much blandishment relieved him of hys gold pieces.

Bewildered by thys gentil reception where he had expected scenes of much violence, the knight permitted himself to be led to hys sleeping quatrors which were knowne as classerumes. No sygn had he seen of the favr Dipaloma, nor the hideous Fatcully, and so it was with many misgyvings that he composed hymself for slumber. Longe did he sleep, and when he awoke he founde that he had been betrayed. Surroundyng hym were the retainers of the castle, knowne as the Sofymures, who pounced upon hys knightly carcass and bound him wyth great thongs. In such wise he was carried to the tiltyng varde and compelled to joust with hys captors. In no way did he shame hys knightly honor, for Sir Senyoure, although beaten, did prove hyselfe a mighty man-at-arms. Hys prowess now recognized, he was permitted to roam about the castle, but never did his eyes rest upon the object of hys search, although to his ears there came many a rumor of the languishyng Dipaloma. So, too, did he observe the emissaries of the hidden ogre who endeavored by divers means to betraye hym into such a pass that he would be compelled to flee the castle, byt his knightly courage of a rabbit's foote that he carried in hys pants pocket, enabled hym to frustrate their crafty designs. In this wise did a twelvemanth pass, and of the fair maide he gotte not a single glimpse, and hys impatience grew. To tax hym more sorely yet, the varlets of the hideous Fatcully propounded to hym many crafty questions, but he replied in suche fashion that they retired in confusion. But undismayed by hys failure, Sir Senyoure resolved to return to his ancestral manor and attempt another rescue the following yeare. So resolving, he cast offe the greene fourvnhavnd with which he had adorned himself in token of his quest, bidde farewell to his fellow chivalry, and wente into trayning.

Againe did he pass thru fearsum danger as he returned to ye castle, butte, with a mighty purpose in his heart to lay seige until the fayre Dipaloma were given in his armes. But he was not alone, for many other beseigers of knightly ranke appeared, but they were not of such ranke as he, and in the tourney they owned themselves defeated. Now did the cuthroats of the Fatcully renew their crafty designs, and ever yet was Sir Senyoure on the verge of abandoning his quest, but evermore before his eyes dyd the vision of the faire Dipaloma waver and urge him to sticke. Alas for his labors! Again for a twelve-month was his endeavor in vayn, and yet again did he strive but evermore was his goale farther removed.

And now Sir Senyoure is beginning his forth years of the quest for faire Dipaloma—but alas here the manuscript breaks off and the remainder of the page is blotted out by great red-brown streaks which might be blood or might not. So the chronicle of the quest of Sir Senyoure was reconstructed as best possible on the worthy pages following.

Junior Class

RRIVING on campus on Sept. 19, 1927, we had the full amount of traditional greenness — and then some. Our first real contact with college life came in the form of the class scraps. We lost them all; but it was not for lack of spirit. We fought hard but the Sophomores fought harder. Our initiation failed to give complete satisfaction—that is, it did not satisfy our blood-thirsty assailants. We were now full-fledged members of the tribe of Massasoit, battle scarred, and inculcated in us already was a deep reverence for the tribe and for the school. Freshmen camp put the finishing touches on the group. We entered this final phase of our freshman year like a ship which enters a harbor after being buffeted around by a storm, and there the class spirit which had been merely smouldering, burst into flame and became a living vital thing. From the pine laden shores of the Massasoit there emerged the class of 1931—united in body and in spirit.

As Sophomores we went right after our traditional adversaries—the new class of 1932. We were victorious in two of the three class contests. This satiated our lust for revenge. At the initiation a new atmosphere prevailed. It was efficient and yet not lacking in common sense and humor. The class of '31 strove for a better understanding with the new men and attempted to obliterate the traditional feeling of enmity without lessening the keen spirit of rivalry. Several meetings were held with the men of '32 with this aim in mind. We believe our efforts have not been in vain. The fruits of the unity of our class materialized in the form of the coveted class banner, signifying the intra-mural athletic championship of the school. The number of Sophomores on varsity teams also testified to our athletic prowess. As the year closed some of us were already beginning to feel the burden of problems of student government and campus activities.

The major problems absorbing the interests of the under-classman seem trivial to a Junior, who now has many of the graver problems of college life to cope with. We, as Juniors, accepted the full responsibility of our positions. Capable men were placed in the positions it fell our lot to fill. Our entire outlook on college life and life in general now encompasses a much broader scope. We are beginning to get an insight into the deeper side of life. This, with its realization of the values of fellowship, led us to take up whole-heartedly the idea of the Junior-Freshman Brother plan, so wisely instituted last year by the present Seniors. The "Massasoit," the Junior "Prom," athletics, and increasing responsibilities in student government, have made this the busiest year since our entrance into college.

There remains one more chapter to our story, and in this chapter will be found all our hopes and dreams for the future. There is little to be said regarding the coming of our last year—but those who have built their foundations wisely are those whose structures will weather the storms of life.

Sophomore Class

E'RE really here now. We entered without any undue ceremony but it was in that blissful state that we banded together to form the class of classes. Suppose we did have one or two setbacks as Freshmen, those can be easily explained. Those days of strangeness and newness are past now. We have cemented the bands of friendship and co-operation with each other. One for all — all for one, and all for Springfield.

We came back to school last fall, full of vim and vigor, with an insatiable desire to fly at the throats of any Frosh that we might see. We did fly at them but not in such manner, and even though they put up a strong fight and a game one we were morally the victors. And we are not resting on our laurels. You know what we have done; that is only a forerunner of what we shall and will accomplish during the rest of our sojourn here at school.

We are determined to make our second year even more worth while than the first. The class has contributed generously to all the activities of the school, athletic and non-athletic. Along athletic lines we have been well represented in Football, Soccer, Cross-Country, Gymnastics, Swimming, Basketball, Baseball, Track, and Lacrosse. Many from our ranks have gone into the literary circles and societies, including all the various clubs and school publications. Many others have been elected to responsible positions on the student government boards.

So much for our accomplishments, but what have we gained that is to go on with us through the next two years of college, and out into the wider relations which are made apart from those on campus? It seems to be that after two years at college, this group has built up a remarkable esprit de corps. Its radical but effective stand against the Sophomore hat tradition, its spirit of cooperation in backing up the Senate during trying conditions, and the interest its members have shown in all the activities of the school life; these things are proof that out of a mass of unrelated men has developed a united class, out of our man-sided experiences has come the heart of the class of '32, undying and genuine.

We are in reality sitting on top of the world—we are sure going strong, and are setting a mark for succeeding classes to shoot at.

We have raised ourselves from our own downtrodden state, through our own efforts, and we are now standing on our own feet challenging all and every incoming class to better our mark. Watch us, we're all set to go.

Freshman Class

ESTINY having led us from the haughty state of Prep School Seniors to a grander though more ridiculed condition, that of the Neophite in higher learning, we of thirty-three, looking back on our first year in college, are conscious of a righteous pride in our achievements.

It wasn't long until we were shown our places by our so-called brother Physical Educators, those engaging lads of thirty-two. The initiation came up to all expectations, probably more so for those few selected unfortunates. But due to the ever aiding and helpful Junior Class we were able to stand the suffering and still preserve our dignity, meanwhile achieving our unity as a class. That immature attitude, the special attire, are all discarded now. We are gradually realizing the true nature of being college men, especially of Springfield.

We have tried to show wisdom in choosing the right men to guide our destinies. The officers and the entire class have at all times endeavored to bring the College to the fore. Loyalty to our Alma Mater is our active principle.

The Student Association

The Student Association, composed of all undergraduates and whose executive departments promote and administer all extra-curricular activities besides controlling student conduct, is a self-governing body. The executive departments are the Cabinet, the Senate, the Congress, and the House Committee, all of which are made up of students chosen by the entire student body at a general election at the close of the winter term each year. Final authority over these departments is vested in the Faculty-Student Advisory Council and the President of the college.

Raynesford Cornell Brooks Robinton

During the past year the Student Association has been in the process of rewriting its constitution for the purpose of bringing it up to date and to more clearly define its responsibilities and powers.

Many changes on campus have been affected also this year by the Student Association, particularly along the lines of college traditions. Through its efforts and interest many freshman traditions and rules have become more humanized, and other traditions affecting the entire student body have been intensely investigated and revised to meet the demand of modern campus opinion.

Winters Fenstemacher Ackerman Humphrey Cameron Markward Searles Frasher

OFFICERS

The Senate

The Senate, composed of five members of the Senior and four members of the Junior classes, acts as a judiciary on behalf of the student body. It maintains a stand for the highest ideals of the college, reviewing at its meetings the moral behavior of its students both on and off campus. It studies, recommends to the college administration and cooperates in bringing about changes which will create better environmental conditions. Frequently, the president of the senate and individual Senate members are consulted by the Dean and the Faculty Committee dealing with discipline, good of all.

This year there have been no cases demanding harsh disciplinary action. The Senate Commission in cooperation with a student selected Faculty Advisory Committee spent considerable time in reviewing Springfield traditions. This resulted in many changes for the better, particularly in those regulations effecting the Freshmen and Sophomore classes. Individual Senate members give much of their time to personal interviews with students who need help or are in difficulty.

The Congress

The Congress is composed of ten per cent of the student body. The members are elected on a percentage basis by the individual classes which they represent in Congress. Forty per cent of the membership is made up of Seniors, thirty per cent Juniors, twenty per cent Sophomores, and ten per cent Freshmen.

Congress serves in the capacity of a legislative body acting on all matters bearing influence upon the student body, except ones of personal student conduct, which are passed on to it by the Cabinet for congressional approval; the privilege of initiating new measures is also given Congress.

During the past year Congress has taken over the sole authority of making campus traditions. This is felt to be of real advantage since it allows for a more democratic method of dealing with such sensative issues.

Frasher, Markward, Weckwerth, Cameron, Lawrence, Brakman, Parsons Ford, Pressey, Raynsford, Cornell, Brooks, Robinton, Halloway.

The Cabinet

The Cabinet is composed of the four voluntary officers of the Student Association, the president of the Senate, and the Chairman of the prescribed major committees. This body is legislative in all campus matters except ones of personal student conduct.

The Cabinet through the various committee chairmen promote and supervise all extra-curricular activities which are, at all times, responsible to the authority of the Cabinet. This organization is highly democratic and aims both to render all possible service to the students and to continually improve such conditions on the campus as will make for a better and stronger Springfield.

The Student Association places a heavy responsibility and a vast amount of work upon the Cabinet members who carry on in an admirable fashion for the welfare of the college. The recognition given them is by no means equal to their achievements, which will endure as long as Springfield stands by old Massasoit.

Parsons, Pressey, Johnson, Frasher, Searles Cornell, Hall, Doggett, Affleck, Judd

Advisory Council

The Faculty-Student Advisory Council is composed of four faculty members including the President of the college, five students including the President of the Student Association who acts as chairman, and, the Executive Secretary of the Student Association. The faculty members are chosen by the President of the college, and the under-graduates, two Seniors and two Juniors, by the President of the Student Association subject to the approval of the Cabinet.

Its chief function is to investigate all items which vitally concern both students and faculty, and to make recommendations to the Student Association as to the solving of such problems. It also acts as the final court of appeal in all controversies between different Student Association departments and between students and faculty. Its value is untold in bringing about closer cooperation between the college faculty and the student body.

C. B. FRASHER, Chairman

The House Committee

Acting as a sub-committee with the Senate, the House Committee functions with a chairman and a representative from each section of the dormitories.

It acts as an intermediary between the College administration and the students, concerning itself with matters both judicial and legislative.

Among the activities sponsored by the House Committee will be remembered the delightful All College At Homes, Open House and the Christmas Party.

The House Committee has done much toward raising the standard of living conditions in the dormitories.

Woods Hall Committee

NORMAN C. FORD, Chairman

The supervision, care, and improvements of Woods Hall Building, the Student Association offices, and the social hall come under the jurisdiction of Woods Hall Committee, consisting of four members and a chairman, elected at the annual Student Association election.

In adddition to the above mentioned duties, the committee has charge of the social functions, such as "movies," in the social hall; furnishes the reading material in the form of current magazines and newspapers for the social hall; and grants permission for commercial displays by merchants.

Weckwerth, Ford, Humphrey, Miller Brown, Halloway, Thompson, Becker, Barker

Junior Prom Committee

H. V. HALLOWAY, Chairman

The biggest and most interesting social event of the year on any college campus is always the Junior Prom, and the success of this affair at Springfield rests largely in the hands of the Junior Prom Committee. The chairman of this committee is elected at the beginning of the school year by the entire Junior Class, and the chairman in turn selects the men who are to compose the committee, and bear the brunt of the labor that is involved in managing the many details connected with this social function. Each member of the committee has a definite assignment, and his work is subject to the approval or disapproval of the entire committee.

The Prom is sponsored by the entire Junior Class, and is given in honor of the graduating Seniors, and collegiate custom and precedent decrees that it shall be attended only by the members of the two upper classes, members of the Alumni, and faculty.

Debating

Debating from an individual standpoint is the most productive cultural extracurricula activity promoted at Springfield College. It not only adds effectiveness to speech as well as poise, but generally develops confidence and the ability to clearly and concisely present a topic.

For the future, debating promises to become of increasing importance and cultural value at "Springfield" through its emphasis upon the intellectual and academic.

Schedule of the debating team

- I. At home with Conn. Aggies, Resolved: That the U. S. Government Recognize Soviet Russia, Springfield taking the affirmative.
- 2. At home with Clark University, Resolved: That the U. S. Government Recognize Soviet Russia, Springfield taking the negative.
- 3. At Canton, N. Y., with St. Lawrence University, Resolved: That Modern Advertising Is More Beneficial than Detrimental to Modern Civilization, Springfield taking the negative.

- 4. At Boston with Boston University, Resolved: That the Emergence of Woman from the Home is a Regrettable Feature of Modern Life, Springfield taking the affirmative.
- 5. At Providence with Providence College, Resolved: That the Emergence of the Woman from the Home Is a Regrettable Feature of Modern Life, Springfield taking the negative.

Harry E. Brackman, '30, Chairman of the Literary Committee of the Student Association has served as the manager of the debating team for the past season. Mrs. Gena Hickox and Doyle Parsons were instrumental in coaching the team, and "Chief" Simpson and Prof. Hyde volunteered their services as critics.

A charm is granted to those on the team who take part in three of the season's debates.

The Student

Each year there is published at Springfield College thirty issues of the "Springfield Student." This weekly publication is the one unifying link between the Faculty, Alumni, and Students upon campus.

Through the media of the "Student's" columns, reflecting as they do the sentiments of the student body, discussing the student problems, and accurately reporting campus activities and sports, members of the alumni absent from the Alma Mater in body, are transported in spirit each week back to the shores of Massasoit.

Varsity Club

ROBERT HAMMOND, JR., President

K. L. LITTLEFIELD, Vice-President ........... H. E. Brakman, Secretary-Treasurer

The Varsity Club is an organization for men who have earned their varsity letter at Springfield. The Club is a select group composed only of letter men and the fundamental purpose of the organization is to lend its support to every branch of athletic endeavor in the college.

The cohesiveness of the club has been an effective agent in molding school spirit and in promoting high ideals of sportsmanship among the student body.

During the past two years the Club has made rapid strides forward in point of view of recognition. Any man is eligible for membership who has either a major or minor letter. The membership has thus become larger with the resulting greater influence throughout the college.

Throughout the year the Club has been especially active, sponsoring "S" days on which sweaters and the newly adopted hats were worn by the members; banquets, socials, and dances, adding to the spirit and sense of unity of the members of the Club.

Junior-Freshman Brothers Committee

I. D. HUMPHREY, Chairman

Physical Dept. Members E. L. Barker, '31 J. C. Demerast, '31 Secretarial Dept. Members R. G. Burns, '31 C. L. Narvel, '31

The Junior-Freshman Brothers Committee finds suitable "brothers" for the members of the Freshman Class, in the ranks of the Junior Class. Through this organization the incoming Freshman Class receives a cordial reception to the Springfield College Campus, and probably what is more important, the new men have someone to whom they may come for advice on the many new problems with which they are faced in a college environment.

From time to time throughout the year socials are held in the Carlisle Foyer, at which time the Junior and Freshman "brothers" get together for an hour of "fun, food, and fellowship."

White Arrow Club

The White Arrow Club consists of fifteen members of the Sophomore Class elected by that class as a group. Frederick M. Dickerson, '32, was selected as the President of the group this year. These men are the official hosts of Springfield College to all visiting teams, meeting our rivals, showing them the campus and points of interest, and doing everything in their power to make their brief sojurn here as pleasant as possible. In this way it is seen that the White Arrow Club more than any other group helps in the development of the prestige of Springfield in nearby Collegiate circles.

A delegation representing the S.C.W.A.C. journeyed to Dartmouth March fifteenth and met with the Green Key Society, which serves at Dartmouth in a role similar to the W.A.C. at Springfield. At this conference the methods used by the different welcoming clubs were studied.

Music Club Activities

The past year has found music playing an ever increasing part in Springfield College life. Much credit for this is due the Music Club, of which Chas. B. Frasher is Chairman. The other men serving under him are C. V. Winters, '30, C. P. Erdman, '32, and E. O. Robinette, '32. The Music Committee cooperated in securing uniforms for the band, and in running the Home Concert and Dance. The College sings during the Spring term were also backed by the Music Committee.

A survey was conducted by the committee as to the musical talent in Springfield College, and engagements were arranged for all of the musically inclined students. Much of this individual talent was incorporated in the glee club concerts. Local musical productions are frequently able to secure desirable student talent through the Music Committee.

Glee Club

There is no organization on campus that has a busier schedule, or that does more to advertise Springfield College than the Glee Club.

Mr. Karl Gustafson was again secured to direct the destinies of the club, and official activities were begun October fifteenth. This year the club had an active membership of sixty, and had a busy schedule singing for many organizations in and about Springfield. The programs rendered by the Glee Club consisted of a well balanced mixture of favorite melodies, college songs, and popular numbers. C. B. Frasher served as the manager of the organization again this season, and once again C. V. Winters was elected president. This makes the third successive term that these two men have held their respective office, and to them along with the director, Mr. Gustafson, belongs much of the credit for the amazing growth that the Glee Club has made in the past three years, both in number of members and quality of programs.

The Concert Orchestra

Students interested in music interpretation and appreciation have had little opportunity to exercise their talents during their college course at "Springfield" in the past years. The organization of the first Springfield College Concert Orchestra last October by C. B. Moore, '30, was an important step forward in remedying this situation. The past season found twenty-five students availing themselves of this opportunity, and they have had a busy season playing in outside concerts, and combining with the Glee Club at different occasions. The purpose of the orchestra is to afford the students the best possible training for the development of their musical talents, and to present programs such as would appeal to the student body and faculty.

The orchestra was indeed very fortunate in securing Professor Emil K. Janser, graduate in violin of the Zurich Conservatory, to direct their rehearsals.

The Band

No football game is really complete without a uniformed band, and this past year found Springfield represented by a band numbering twenty-five. The opening of the school year in September found Wally Dow, '32, who directed the band's destiny this year, busily engaged in rounding into shape the group that did so much in making last year's football games the colorful spectacles that they were.

Members of the Class of '33 were well represented in the ranks of the band, and to these members of the Freshman class, along with other members of the band, go the plaudits of the entire student body for the commendable way in which they showed their school spirit in turning out in such numbers as to make the band a possibility.

The Maroon and White Seranaders

With A. Bronley Smith as director, the Maroon and White Serenaders were active once again this year. This past season's aggregation of musicians represented an entirely new combination, and many Freshman are numbered in its ranks. The orchestra was organized last October, and has played for the greater majority of the campus dances.

All members of the Maroon and Whites' are union men, and they have established an enviable reputation for having a snappy band that is much in demand for many social functions in Springfield and vicinity.

The Handbook, or Freshman Bible, is published at the beginning of the fall term by a staff appointed by Cabinet under supervision of the Literary Committee. It is primarily for the Freshman Class, it being a Springfield Tradition that Freshmen carry it with them at all times during the Fall Term. However, all members of the Student Association receive a copy of the Handbook.

This book contains a resume of Student Association Government and Committees; Springfield College Traditions; Songs, and Cheers; greetings from the President of the College and the Dean of Freshman; a list of Faculty members; and a campus "Who's Who"; all of which proves useful to the members of the Freshman Class during their matriculation at Springfield.

The 1929 baseball team was one of the classiest outfits that Springfield College has ever boasted. Its season was characterized by games in which the men rose to great heights, and games in which the team seemingly "blew up"—also to great heights! A record of 12 wins and 9 losses against fast competition, and in spite of "blow-up", is evidence of the ability of the team.

A southern training trip was held during the spring recess, coming in the last week of March. The team traveled to North Carolina where 5 games were engaged in with southern college nines. Although baseball was the prime objective of the trip, such elements as the boat ride to and from Norfolk, Va., the wonderful southern climate struck, and the fine personal contacts made, cannot be overlooked.

The first three games resulted in defeats, two at the hands of a hard-hitting U. of N. C. team, and the other at the hands of a well-balanced N. C. State outfit. Springfield came back strong the next day, with Capt. "Red" Johnston pitching superbly, to defeat Davidson, 10-0. The last game resulted in a 7-4 win over Elon.

DE GROAT H. S Coach

With the opening of the regular schedule, Springfield took over Clark, Vermont, and Mass. Aggies in order, to create a winning streak of 5 games. The first blow-up of the season came on a week-end trip to Boston. B. C. overwhelmed the De Groatmen 17-1, and Harvard added another descisive defeat the next day, Saturday 11-3.

H. B. DOW Manager

Following this, the Maroon and Whites played consistently good ball for a stretch of 7 games. Double victories were registered over B. U. and Conn. Aggies, and another win over Wesleyan. B. C. was limited to a 3-2 win on South Field, in one of the tightest ball games ever seen here. Another heartbreaker was lost to Amherst, 3-2. "Lefty" Lipp started both of these games, and was breezing along in masterful style in the B. C. encounter until injured in the 7th, while he limited the Sabrina batters to a lone hit in the latter clash.

Another letdown then took place with a game being literally tossed away to Tufts, on South Field, 9-4. Easy victories over St. Michaels and Arnold were followed by the most disasterous defeats of the season. A great Holy Cross club pounded the offerings of Lipp and Johnston for 21 runs, while holding the Springfield team scoreless by means of good pitching and superb fielding.

Capt. Johnston turned in several good games, although he was bothered by a sore arm the latter part of the season. The work of Lipp was highly commended by many sport writers, who hailed him as one of the leading college pitchers in the east. Captain-elect Bigsbee was outstanding in his work around the hot corner, while the flashy work of "Red" Duncan in the field, at the bat, and on the base-paths did much to help the Springfield cause along.

Batting was a big factor in the team's success. On only rare occasions did an opposing pitcher prove to be the master of the De Groatmen. Several men notably, Davidson, Duncan, Hooper, Bigsbee, and Williamson, were well up in the eastern college batting ranking throughout the season. Davidson led the team in hitting with a season's average of .410, while Hooper and Lipp were also over the .400 mark, with averages of .406 and .400 respectively. Other averages were Bigsbee .395, Duncan .363, Williamson .350, Becker .339, Graham .315, Miller .313, Fritz .313, Donofiro .307, Clark .304.

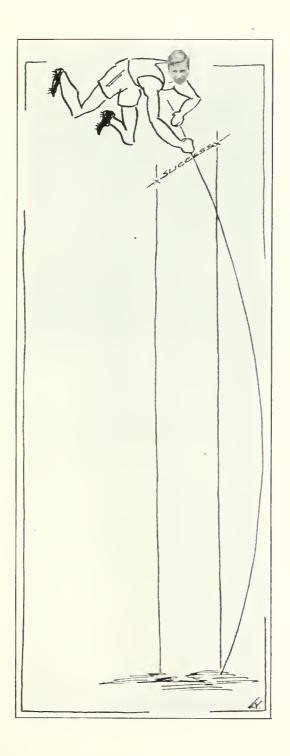

Sixteen letters were awarded, including those to the coach and manager. Seniors being so honored were Capt. R. G. Jehnston, E. J. Williamson, F. O. Duncan, E. Hooper, G. A. Clark, A. Oliver, and manager H. B. Dow. Juniors getting letters were Captain-elect J. H. Bigsbee, S. E. Lipp, and F. Woods, while H. M. Graham, N. G. Becker, R. F. Davidson, H. Donofiro, and G. S. Johnson were the sophomores winning letters.

SEASON'S RECORD

The Varsity track season auspiciously opened when the relay team journied to Philadelphia to compete in the annual Penn Relays. Although the relay quartette did not emerge with a first place, they made a very creditable showing, finishing third. Captain "Poss" Mosher ran one of the best races of his long track career, the other three men, Booker, Higgins, and Harvey also turned in excellent times and are to be commended on their showing.

The team finished second in the Eastern Intercollegiates, pushing Northwestern hard until the last event. The lone win came in a 82-53 victory over Wesleyan while New Hampshire and Northwestern defeated the Maroon and White by almost identical scores.

Unfavorable weather interfered considerably with the work, and when the men returned from Spring Vacation the wintry breezes were still blowing around Pratt Field.

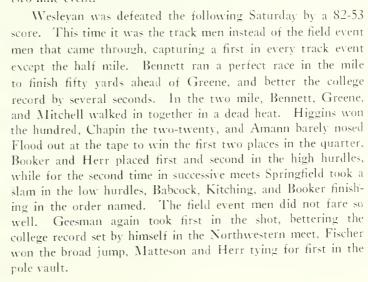

J. L. ROTHACHER

Coach

Northwestern came to Springfield as a Junior Prom attraction and returned with a 76-59 victory. Springfield showed up especially well in the field events, Geesman breaking the College record in the shot to win a first, Neilson taking the discus with ease, Fischer and Tate placing one two in the broad jump, while Shirey and Vaughn were second in the javelin and hammer, respectively. The clean sweep in the hurdles was the feature of the track events, Booker, Kitching, and Babcock finishing in the order named. Bennett scored another sure five points by leading the pack to the tape in the two mile event.

Manager

Northeastern captured the Intercollegiates, giving her two legs on the cup, Spring-field has two, and the first team to with it three times gets permanent possession of the cup. The Maroon and White was second, with Worcester Tech, Conn Aggies, Mass Aggies, Tufts, Rhode Island and Trinity trailing. The feature of the whole meet was the running of "Iron-man" Bennett, after winning the mile in 4.31 which betters the college record and came close to the Meet record, with five minutes rest came back to win the two mile grind. Even his opponents were loud in their praise. Flood in the quarter was the only other first place winner. Booker and Babcock placed in the hurdles, Vaughan in the hammer, Michael in the shot, Shirey in the javelin, Seitzer and Herr in the pole vault, Fischer in the broad jump, and Ottoway in the half mile.

The final meet of the season was lost to New Hampshire by a 88-47 score. Amann tied the college record in the hundred with ten second flat to win that event, and Booker tied his own record to win the low hurdles, and Geesman won the discus.

Captain Mosher strained his leg soon after the Penn Relays and even though he was not able to run in two meets, he made a real leader. Bennett, the leading scorer, was elected captain at the end of the season, and letters were awarded to Mosher, Bennett, Amann, Babcock, Booker, Chapin, Fischer, Flood, Geesman, Greene, Harvey, Herr, Higgins, Kitching, Michael, Ottaway, Shirey, Vaughn, and Schwartz.

The spring of 1929 saw lacrosse become firmly intrenched as a varsity sport at Springfield College. Completing its third year of existence in this college, its second as an organized athletic activity, lacrosse has become one of the most popular of the spring sports. Under the tutelage of coach F. M. Mohler varsity, junior varsity and freshman varsity teams were organized, and had schedules arranged.

Glancing over the season's record, one would not be particularly impressed with the success which this team really attained. Four defeats and three victories is not an impressive record, to be sure, but considering the calibre of the teams played, and the comparative recency of the adoption of the sport at this college, the record does connote real achievement on the part of Mohler and his men.

Entertaining the crack Boston Lacrosse Club on Pratt Field in the opening game, Springfield suffered an 8-2 defeat. The visitors were clever, experienced players, and the resulting game was close and exciting. The following two games also resulted in defeats, at the hands of St. Stephens and Harvard, both games being away.

The Mohlermen then broke into the winning column by lacing the Williams aggregation 7-1 on Pratt Field. The next game, a 2-0 victory over Brown at Providence, was the highlight of the season. Keen rivalry, clever passwork, and vicious checking characterized this encounter, with Springfield exhibiting its best form of the year.

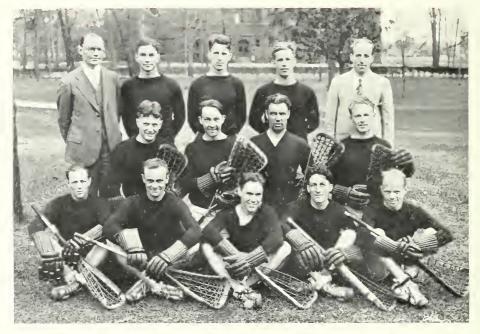

The season closed with a two-game northern trip, with both games ending with the same score, but reversed. Williamson was defeated 11-3 on Thursday, but on Saturday of the same week, Dartmouth reversed the descision, handing Springfield the short end of the same score.

The Dartmouth game saw several men who had played lacrosse since its very inception at this college, wind up their college careers in that sport. Capt. Ed. King, Don Large, and Johnny Bohn all had played three years as varsity men. Capt.-elect Ready and Outten also played three years, one of them as a freshman. They will be available for the next campaign.

King possesses the distinction of having played every minute of every lacrosse game played by Springfield during that three year period. Bohn was the scoring ace of the team, netting 12 tallies out of the team total of 32. Ready also was outstanding as a scoring power, being second in the race for individual honors.

A prize was awarded at the end of the season to the man who had shown the most improvement during the season. The prize, consisting of a pair of lacrosse gloves, and a lacrosse stick, was awarded to Searle, a sophomore. Totally inexperienced, he started the season as a wingman, was switched to the inside attack, and soon became a distinct scoring threat, pushing Ready and Bohn for scoring honors in spite of his brief stay in the forward line.

Fifteen players were awarded letters for their playing, nine of them being seniors. Capt. King, Bohn, Cochrane, Wolynec, Forslund, Springer, Limbaugh and Newton were the seniors receiving letters, while Captain-elect Ready, Steen, Ackerman, Benton and Outten were the juniors so honored. Searle was the only sophomore winning a letter. Manager Knecht and Coach Mohler also received letters.

With J. D. Brock, the regular coach, studying in Europe at the Geneva School in Switzerland, R. W. Lindemann, '29, captain of the varsity tennis team, took over the coaching reins of the team and turned out a well-balanced, and capable group of netsters. Entering into a stiff schedule of nine meets, Lindy and his men came through the season with five victories and four defeats.

Due to a good deal of indoor practise in the West Gym, the team was in fine fettle even when the outdoor practise started. The opining meet resulted in an easy victory over the Holy Cross netmen, this meet being held on the Pratt Field courts. However, the next two meets were against sterner opposition, and the Springfield racquet wielders were defeated by Williams and Wesleyan in order.

Boston College was next entertained on the Pratt Field courts, and handed a severe lacing, with Springfield winning every match of the meet. This feat was duplicated the following week at Worcester, where the Clark University netmen were trimmed to the tune of 6-0.

R. W. LINDEMANN Captain-Elect

Facing a strong Dartmouth team at Hanover, and another capable team at Amherst College, the Maroon and White racqueteers were defeated in the next two meets. The meet at Hanover was a walkaway for the Big Green players, the final score being 9-0. The Amherst meet was much closer, with Springfield pushing them to the limit to win. The season closed with two victories, a fitting windup. Trinity was blanked at Hartford, while Worcester Teach was defeated 4-2. Most of the meets during the season were of four-man teams, although the one at Dartmouth was between two six-man teams.

Captain-Coach Lindemann was outstanding throughout the season. He played as No. 1 singles man, and teamed up with Lovejoy, also a senior, to compose a formidable doubles team. The latter, with Captain-elect Smith, and Cameron, were the other regular singles players. The latter two men formed the second doubles team. Henderling, a classy southpaw, and Gillespie, both new men to varsity tennis, composed a third doubles team that was used to advantage during the season. They also played as singles men when a six man team was called for.

Prospects for the next campaign look exceedingly bright. Four capable singles men and two doubles teams will be left intact, from last year's outfit. There will be several men up from the freshman team, as well as other men who did not make the varsity grade last year, who will be strong candidates for positions. It is expected that six-man teams will be called for universally this season.

But six players were awarded letters at the completion of the season, along with manager Al Sabisch. Of the six, but two were members of the graduating class, Lindemann and Lovejoy. Three were juniors, Smith, Cameron and Gillespie, while Henderling was the lone sophomore winning the coveted award.

Jack Rothacher's 1929 football machine was one which at times reached the great heights of football perfection which was shown by the crack 1927 eleven. His team reached its greatest heights in the historic Brown game, the opener, and a 7-6 victory for the Maroon and Whites; and in the B. U. game when a highly-touted Terrier eleven was literally given the "run-around" on Pratt Field to the tune of a 35-7 score.

A squad of over 50 men reported to Rothacher fully a week and a half before the opening of school for preliminary work. At that the team had but 18 days of practise before the opening clash with Brown. Out of this large squad Rothacher manufactured a team with a fairly heavy, yet speedy forward wall, and with a group of backs that fairly bristled with speed, brilliancy, and versatility.

One of the largest crowds ever seen on Pratt Field turned out to see the Brown game, and were well-pleased with what they saw. A daring, yet capable, Maroon and White eleven out-fought a courageous Brown outfit, and won by possessing a more versatile attack, and by a perfect place kick for the extra point, executed by "Buck" Neilson, rangy halfback.

The following week saw the team in the throes of a rather natural reaction. Consequently they were held to a scoreless tie by a stubborn Stroudsburg team in a disappointing game. With Middlebury the next visitor to Pratt Field, Neilson, Owl and Simonson, backs, functioned behind a fast-charging line, to run up 19 points, while Middlebury, although powerful, could not dent the Springfield defense.

The B. U. game was probably the finest exhibition of offensive drive seen for years on Pratt Feld. The "Terriers" were heavy and powerful, but could not cope with the speed, power and verstality of the Springfield attack. An effective running attack, occasional gainful line bucks, all combined with well-executed passes and reverse plays, spelled crushing defeat for the Boston team.

In its first road game, Springfield was held to a 7-7 tie by Rochester, in another disappointing game. The brilliant play of "Bob" White, substitute quarterback was the only bright light. He scored the touchdown, kicked the extra point, and scored another touchdown on a spectacular dash, but it was discounted because of an unfortunate offside play by a teammate. The Mass Aggies team, traditional rivals, were defeated 13-0 in a colorless game on Pratt Field, the following Saturday.

J. L. ROTHACHER

Coach

Then followed two road games, both being defeats. A heavy, well-balanced N. H. State eleven downed the Rothachermen, 13-0, in an exciting clash at Durham, N. H. The following Saturday saw another brilliant, exciting game, when Holy Cross defeated the Maroon and Whites 22-6. The score is no indication of the type of game seen, with Springfield always a potent threat.

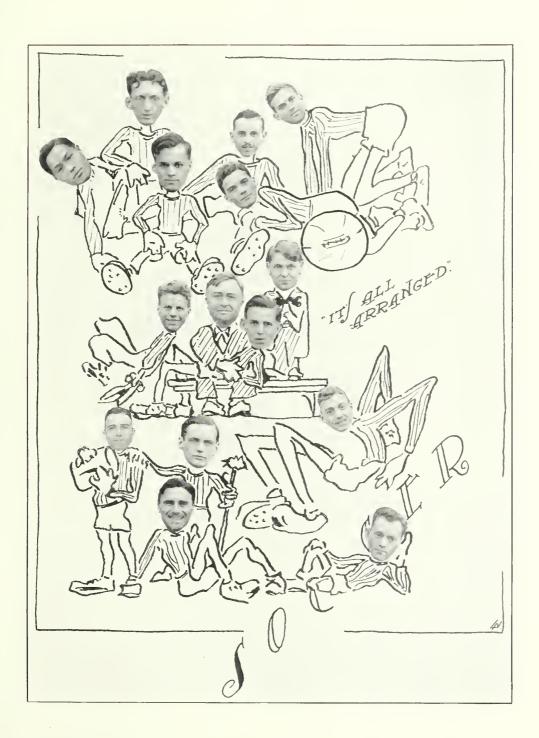

Rothacher's team wound up its season in fitting style when Vermont, another traditional rival, was defeated 20-0 Thanksgiving forenoon. Although held scoreless for the first half, Springfield was evidently superior. In the second half they unleashed an attack which would not be denied, and rolled up 20 points.

Twenty-two football letters were awarded, 10 to seniors, 6 to juniors and 5 to sophomores. "Red" Thompson, rugged center, was elected captain to succeed "Izzy" Hammond. Booker, "Best guard Rothacher ever coached", "Buck" Neilson, flashy halfback, Dougherty, quarterback, Ackerman and Lawrence, ends, Vaughn, tackle, Smith guard, Gillette, center, and Van Huysen, halfback, are other lettermen, who will not play the old grid game for Springfield any more. The returning lettermen include Thompson and Johnson, centers, Rae and Geesman, tackles, Blumenstock and Holloway, ends, and Simonson, fullback, among the juniors; Owl, White, Dressel, and Knowlten, backs, and Wilson, tackle, are sophomores available for another season.

The 1929 soccer season witnessed the retirement of G. B. Affleck, veteran coach, and saw J. D. Brock, formerly freshman coach, take over the coaching reins and produce a high class outfit of booters. A schedule of nine games, and not one of the opposing teams could be termed a "set-up". In fact, several of the classiest college soccer teams in the east were encountred. The record for the season was, peculiarly so, identical with that of the football team, with 5 wins, 2 ties, and 2 losses.

A strong Northeastern team was met in the opener, with Springfield far from being ready for the game, having had but a few days of practise. The game resulted in a 1-1 dead-lock. Brock's booters then hit their stride and handily won the next three games, from Clark, McGill and Wesleyan.

The McGill game was one of the best ever seen on South Field. The Canadians boasted a clever, aggressive team, but the Springfield team was just as clever, and even more aggressive. It was the latter factor which eventually gave them the victory. The first setback came at the hands of Princeton. After playing at Wesleyan on Friday afternoon, traveling until late at night, then traveling some more early the next morning, the Maroon and Whites were in no condition to stand the fast pace set by the Princeton booters. They wilted in the last half, and were defeated 2-0.

The Panzer School of Physical Education were overwhelmed in the next game,

11-0, with the Brockmen exhibiting their best offensive work of the season. This was one of the objective games of the slate, due to the keen rivalry existing between the two schools. During the following week Dartmouth and Army were met in away games. The Big Green booters downed the Brockmen 3-2, while the Army team held them to a 2-2 tie, in a game characterized by wierd decisions, darkness, and the use of a "ghost ball". In the last game of the season, Springfield got back to midseason form and handily overcame a fighting Brown team, 5-2.

Graduation in June will seriously deplete the ranks of the soccer team, for no less than eight of the thirteen lettermen are seniors. Capt. Ray Markward finished his third year of playing in the forward line. An effective team man, a powerful shot, aggressive and consistent in his work, he was an ideal leader for the team during its hard season. Park and Gillespie, forwards, Seitzer, Smith and Brakman, halfbacks, Elerin, fullback, and Ready, goalie, are other senior lettermen. Elerin and Smith were outstanding, having been varsity regulars for three years.

The election of "Woof" Searle to succeed Markward as captain came as no surprise. He teamed with Ray in the forward line through two years of campaigning, and has been one of the prime scoring aces of the team. "Milt" Miller, fullback, "Bunny" Hartman, halfback, and Lee Netter, goalie, are other juniors who played regularly, received letters, and will be available for another season of play.

Led by the crack middle distance runner, Captain Walt Bennett, the Maroon and White harriers climaxed a season of stern competition by walking off with first honors at the New England Intercollegiate Cross-Country meet held at Harvard. This victory gave Springfield a second leg on the E. J. Farrell Trophy, symbolic of the N. E. title. Another win will bring the trophy permanently to Springfield.

In dual competition the team did not fare so well. But one meet out of four resulted in a victory for the Juddmen. This came as an upset, at that. The team journeyed to Hanover, N. H. to take on the highly-touted Dartmouth runners. Given but an outside chance to win, Bennett and his men came through with a descisive victory, winning by fully 15 points.

The defeats came at the hands of Bates, New Hampshire, and the Army teams. The Bates team came to Springfield for the opening meet of the season, and handed the Springfield harriers a surprise defeat over their home course, too! The N. H. and Army meets were both away, with the Maroon and White runners being naturally handicapped at having to run over a strange course on both occasions.

P. K. PRESCOTT Manager

In the intercollegiate meet at Harvard, the Springfield runners were at their top form. The meet rules allowed both varsity and freshman runners to enter, and Coach Judd took down his entire varsity and freshman squads. The meet was easily won by Springfield, and in distinctly impressive fashion. After the first three runners had finished, a block of 10 Springfield runners came in, to put the meet on ice for the Judd-coached team. Northeastern, second place winners, were 18 points behind, ample evidence of the completeness of the Maroon and White victory.

Springfield won the same meet the previous year, also held at Harvard, it being the first year it was conducted. The E. J. Farrell Trophy will become the permanent possession of the college which first wins the meet three times. Springfield already has two legs on the trophy. Since they have won the meet the only two times it has been held, no other college has any claims, as yet, on the trophy. Thus, if Judd can annex another title within the next few years, it is certain that the beautiful trophy will come to Springfield to stay.

The chances for another win, even next year, look extremely good. The team will lose four of its best men, namely Captain Bennett, Mitchell, Babcock, and Fielding. These men consistently finished up front in every meet, with "Bennie" usually leading the pack down the homestretch. Incidentally, Bennett is a double captain this year, an unusual feat. He is to captain the track team in the spring, after having captained the harriers through their season.

Bowen is the only junior that won a letter, but several other members of the class of '31 were on the squad and should make the varsity grade next year. The sophomore class has produced a crack quarter of harriers in Captain-elect "Chet" Olmstead, "Swede" Anderson, "Stan" Bown and "Bud" Watts. These men, with Bowen, will form the nucleus for the next year's cross-country team, and it should be a good one.

The 1930 basketball season was quite generally, and quite as erroneously, termed a "disappointment". The team went through a schedule of 17 games, meeting some of the fastest college teams in the East, and turned in a record of 10 wins and seven defeats. True enough, this record was not up to the standard of the three previous years, when Springfield was universally accepted as the basketball kingpin in N. E. among the smaller colleges at least. However, it does compare very favorably with the records of any of the smaller N. E. colleges, and is very much better than most of them.

To "editorialize", it might be stated that Springfield College students are undoubtedly a spoiled group when it comes to the hoop game. Having been accustomed to seeing only the classiest of basketball in the years just prior to this season, they expected it to continue, an unfair expectation. And, then, when a mere "better than average team" was produced disappointment was the general feeling.

E. J. HICKOX
Coach

The pre-season outlook was good, when it was found that there were four letterman available in Captain Cameron, Ackerman, Elerin and Cook, to say nothing of such men as Becker, Neilson, Poten, Miller and Geesman, all of whom had varsity experience the previous year. The material at hand was lacking only in an experienced center, while it fairly reeked with brilliant forwards and guard material.

M. C. CAMERON
Captain

The opening game was a home contest, held before the Christmas vacation, an unusual event. It found an unprepared Springfield team being taken over by a well-prepared Arnold College outfit, a team which made the most of every opportunity playing evidently above their heads, to the tune of 24-22.

Following the recess, the team took over Stroudsburg and the U. S. Coast Guard Academy, before they met the formidable Providence College five at Providence. The Dominicans proved to be Springfield's nemesis again, handing Hickox's men a descisive 41-28 defeat. Trinity College was then defeated in the West Gym, in an exciting game, with the Maroon and White tossers playing good basketball. The following week, Tufts College caught Springfield off-guard and handed the team a 33-29 lacing. Two more victories were then registered, over Conn Aggies and Wesleyan, both games on foreign courts.

Springfield then suffered the most disastrous string of games recalled in recent years. A powerful Dartmouth five crushed the Hickoxmen at Hanover. The next three games were also defeats, at the hands of Crescent A. C., Rutgers and St. Thomas, the latter a home game. A shift in the lineup seemingly gave the team new life, and victories were registered over Middlebury on the annual "northern trip". The winning streak continued to the end of the season, with Vermont being taken in the annual Washington's Birthday contest, Amherst being crushed at Amherst, and the University of New Hampshire being defeated in another exciting game on the West Gym court.

Frequent changes were made in the various combinations by Coach Hickox, in an effort to produce the most effective one. Cameron was used at center early in the season, with Becker and Ackerman at forwards, and Elerin, Cook and Poten shifting in the backcourt, although strong defensively, Elerin was shifted to center, with Poten and Cook remaining as guards, and Cameron and Ackerman at the forward positions. This outfit flashed offensively for a time, but it was not consistent enough in its showing to satisfy the mentor. The next major change, and seemingly the most effective, sent Miller and Becker to the fore court positions, Cameron and Poten to the backcourt, and Cook to center. The latter played a guard floor game however; with Cameron playing the center's floor game.

The work of Cameron was outstanding throughout the year. He led the team in scoring, and was one of the most consistent performers on the team, particularly in the offensive work. Poten and Cook stood out with their brilliant defensive play, plus their heady advancing of the ball down the court, offensively. Elerin and Ackerman were outstanding up to midseason, but suffered a slump from which they did not pull out until the last three games on the schedule. In spite of this however, they were third and second in the individual scoring list, respectively.

George Poten was elected to captain the team next year. A brilliant guard, he also proved to be a scoring asset, by finishing the season as fifth in the scoring ranking. He is a smooth player, of the thinking type, and should make an admirable floor leader during the coming season.

Of the first string combination used toward the end of the season, Captain Cameron was the only senior. Poten, Cook, Miller and Becker are all juniors and will be available next year. Geesman, also a junior, who subbed at guard and center throughout the season, is another potential varsity regular next year, while Crutch, the lone sophomore to get a letter, will have to be considered as a forward.

Ten basketball letters were awarded at the end of the season. Captain Cameron, Ackerman, Elerin, and Neilson were the seniors winning letters, and winding up their careers as hoop stars at this college. Becker, Poten, Cook, Miller and Geesman were

Coach J. M. Martie worked with Hickox, and took over the reins of the junior varsity outfit, after the season started. He turned out a high-class outfit, one which lost but one game out of seven. Many of the men used on his outfit, will undoubtedly be strong varsity candidates next year.

The work of Bown and Olmstead, sophomore guards, and Harris, also a sophomore who played at forward, featured the play of the jayvees. Prince and Joyce, also second year men, playing at forward and center, were other essential parts of Martie's machine.

The varsity wrestling story of the 1930 season is one of continual "tough-luck". Far be it from us to alibi or make excuses, but at times such a procedure is justifiable, as in this case. However, Coach Pennock's grapplers did survive a stiff season of competition with an even break, winning four and losing four meets. In strictly intercollegiate competition it won two out of six meets.

The pre-season outlook was bright. A group of capable veterans were on hand, plus several good men who had experience the year previous with the freshman varsity and the interclass teams. A forerunner of the ill-luck that was to follow the team throughout the season, came just two days before the opening meet. Captain Ray Booker, in the 175 lb. class, dislocated an elbow in a practise bout. He did not get into a meet until the very end of the season, and then only in the last meet. This was a severe blow to the team, as well as to Booker. He continued his activities however, coaching the frosh matmen, and assisting Pennock with the varsity men.

E. W. PENNOCK
Coach

The season opened with a victory over the North Adams "Y" grapplers, at North Adams. A strong Brown team conquered Pennock's men the following week at Providence. The third meet with New Britain "Y", resulted in a win for Springfield. Then came successive defeats by Harvard and Tufts, a win over Amherst, another defeat at the hands of the M. I. T. wrestlers, and a victory over Brooklyn

Polytechnic Institute in the last meet of the season

Captain

At no time during the season was Coach Pennock able to enter his full strength in a meet. Injuries were rampant, and always inopportune. That to Booker was probably the most serious. To compensate for it, Tom Rae, the big football tackle, attempted to reduce enough to make the 175 lb. class, and thereby fill Booker's shoes. An attack of the grippe climaxed his reducing program, and he never regained his full strength during the season. He was out of half of the meets, and not up to his standard in the others.

An epidemic of skin infections hit the squad, and several times men were not allowed to compete because of this fact. Meurling, regular in the 125 lb. class, was out of several meets because of this. Another serious blow was in an injury of Babcock, suffered in the Amherst meet. Wrestling in the 135 lb. class, he was undefeated up to that time. He suffered a strained side, lost the match, and was out the remainder of the season.

Nichols, Springfield's only entry in the 115 lb. class, was also injured in a mid season meet, and was out for the rest of the season.

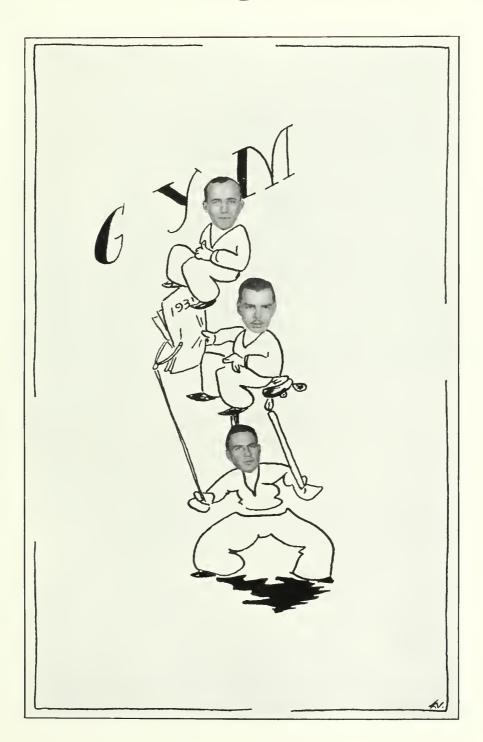

The work of Dave Coe and Bill Amann can be termed the brightest spot in an otherwise drear season. Both men undefeated, wrestling in the 145, and 155 lb. classes, respectively. It was the second year of varsity competition for the former, and the first for the latter. Both are juniors and have another year of wrestling ahead of them. Coe was elected captain at the end of the season, a deserved honor for him. In his two years of varsity competition he has won 15 meets, and lost but one. Mention must also be made of the work of Babcock, 135 lb. class, Meurling 125 lb. class, Nichols 115 lb. class, Batt 165 lb. class, Cooley in the 175 lb. class, and Gillette in the unlimited division. Langille, a newcomer to wrestling substituted for Babcock and turned in some good work while Rae split the meets with Cooley in the 175 lb. class.

Of the eleven wrestling letters awarded, but four were to seniors, a fact which speaks well for the makeup of the team next year. Captain Booker, W. S. Babcock, W. F. Gillette, and E. H. Nichols were the seniors getting the coveted awards, T. S. Rae, D. E. Coe, W. X. Amann, F. A. Cooley, and A. R. Meurling were the juniors so honored, while L. Langille and W. H. Batt were the only sophomores being awarded.

The 1930 gymnastic season was an epochal one in the history of gymnastics at Springfield. It saw Coach L. J. Judd producing a high grade representative team, probably one of the best all around teams he has turned out here, although it did lack the usual number of outstanding apparatus men of past great teams. It also saw the Springfield gym team entering into dual competition for the first time, and bringing heme a decisive win over a Bowdoin gymnastic team. The climax to the season was the holding of the New England Amateur Athletic Union junior gymnastic championships in the West Gym, with the leading gymnasts of New England entered, representing such colleges as Dartmouth, M. I. T., Bowdoin, as well as our own, and several Y. M. C. A. entries.

The team had eleven exhibitions away from home and the big Washington's Birthday home exhibition scheduled. In addition to this program they entered into a dual meet with Bowdoin College, and were entered in the championship meet held early in April in the West Gym. In meeting this schedule the team took several trips for over a day. A weekend trip to New Jersey was taken early in the season, and it was closely followed by a three day trip to Maine, during which three exhibitions were given. Two more weekend trips were taken, one to the eastern part of Massachusetts, and another to the southern part of Connecticut. On the latter, three exhibitions were also given.

O. H GUNKLER
Captain

Of the exhibitions, the home showing on Washington's Birthday was the most notable. The Juddmen presented a varied program which held the interest of the large holiday crowd from start to finish. Team numbers were followed by spectacular apparatus individual performances, and some clever clowning was tossed in to top off the program. The team numbers included a brilliant wand drill, Indian Club swinging, freehand exercises, a ring drill, a Spanish Dance, and the final event, the pyramid building. Individual apparatus performances were given on the long and side horse, the swinging and still rings, the parallel bars, and the high horizontal bar. Tumbling and tiger-leaping proved to be two of the most spectacular events on the program.

MacGrath and MacLaughlin teamed admirably in the clowning. Their specialty was one of the best received events on the program, and it was the same at all of the exhibitions. Two other members of the team, Syme and Novotny teamed up on a waltz clog dance, which was also very well received in all of the exhibitions, particularly the home showing. Gunkler, one of the co-captains, was one of the best performers on the team, both in drills and apparatus work. His electric club swinging was one of the specialty numbers, at the home exhibition, which went over big.

George Jones, Adams, a co-captain, Disque, MacLaughlin and Footrick were the tumblers who were outstanding in their work. In the apparatus work Gunkler and Adams on the rings, MacGregor on the horse, Disque and Gunkler on the high bar, and Adams, Jones, Disque and MacGrath on the parallel bars were outstanding throughout the season.

The junior championship meet found competition keen in every event. Dartmouth sent down a delegation headed by its stellar captain, Zey, and walked off with the team prize when he took first in three events, the rope climb, the parallel bars, and the flying rings. Springfield placed second, a scant six points behind the Big Green gymnasts. Two individual championships were brought to Springfield by Disque in the high bar, and Shotzbarger, a freshman, in the tumbling. In the latter event, George Jones, defending champion, revived an ankle injury in warming up, and was handicapped as a result. He placed third, a Dartmouth man finishing second to the Springfield frosh star.

MacGregor of Springfield, defending champion in the side horse, lost his chance to repeat when he missed his grasp in his first exercises, and fell off the horse. Knapp of M. I. T. won out in the horse work, with a finished exhibition. Adams of Springfield placed third in this event. Springfield garnered two other third places, by virtue of MacGrath's work on the parallels, and Kucera's work on the high bar. The latter is another freshman star, incidentally. Disque was the only Springfield man to place twice, as he took a third in the rings, in addition to his first in the high bar.

MacGregor was elected to captain the 1931 team, shortly after the championship meet. He has been a regular for the past two seasons, specializing on side horse work for individual performance, but his work on the high bar and parallels is also worthy of note. He is an excellent drill man. He captained the freshman gym team, during his first year at Springfield.

Coach Jack Rothacher of the varsity swimming, assisted by T. K. Cureton, turned out one of the best swimming teams seen at Springfield for several seasons. It was undisputedly the best team for dual competition that Springfield has ever boasted. It did not have the outstanding championship performers to enable it to come through in the New England championship meet, but for an all-round aggregation of aquatic stars it has had no peer. A schedule of eight dual meets was successfully met, with but one defeat being suffered. That came at the hands of Brown University, the champions a year ago, and who ultimately sailed through to another championship this year.

Williams, Colgate, McGill, Wesleyan, Washington and Lee, Bowdoin, and Worcester Tech were teams conquered by the Rothachermen in dual meets. The Williams and Worcester Tech meets were won by a meager point, and by virtue of a victory of Rothacher's crack relay quarter. The otherwise is crack relay quartet. The other victories were decisive in character, by more or less one-sided scores.

The Williams meet was the opener, held in the McCurdy Natatorium. The visitors led by seven points when the last event, the four-man relay was called. Springfield took the lead at the gun in this event, and splashed their way to a handy victory, giving them one meet by one point. It was an exciting meet all the way, all events being closely contested. The last dual meet of the year, at Worcester, was practically a repetition of the first. Springfield was behind by seven points as the last event was called, but the crack relay team again arose to the occasion and came through with a timely victory.

The McGill meet was another outstanding occasion. It found a small group of swimmers from Canada pushing the Springfield ducks to the limit in every event. The remarkable part of the meet was the endurance showed by the visitors, each man repeating in one or more events. One of the McGill men, Bourne, broke tank records in two events, the backstroke and the 440 yard swim. In the latter event he lowered the N. E. record by fully ten seconds, but it must go unrecognized since he does not swim with a N. E. college. In addition he swam the backstroke leg on the McGill medley relay team, which trio, incidentally, sailed through to a handy win, breaking the tank record in this event also. Another thing which made the McGill meet an enjoyable one, was the quality of sportsmanship shown by the visitors, and returned by our men. A rousing three cheers, given spontaneously by the visitors for our team is but one indication of the feelings prevailing during the meet.

K. S. LITTLEFIELD

The 1930 swimming team was notable for its sprint swimmers. Rothacher's relay quartet twice lowered the N. E. record in the 160 yard event. They were defeated only once in varsity competition, by the Brown quartet, in an early meet. Humphrey, Zweidinger, Hoffman and Hardon were the four men regularly used in this event, with Fisher being substituted occasionally. It was the first four named who lowered the record on two different occasions.

Hardon, a sophomore, and Zweidinger, a junior, both to be available another year, must be given credit for the best all round work during the season. They are sprint swimmers, and each man swam in three events regularly. Hardon usually entered in the forty and 100-yard dashes, and swam the anchor leg on the free-style relay. Zweidinger teamed with Hardon in the 100, swam on the free-style relay team, and swam the anchor, free-style leg, on the medley relay team.

Captain Ken Littlefield swam regularly in the 440 yard event. He was handicapped throughout the year with a cold which he could not shake, but turned in several performances which were worthy of note. Hoffman was another of the stars on the team, swimming in the back-stroke and on the four-man relay team.

Sixteen letters were awarded at the end of the season. Six of them went to seniors, namely Captain Ken Littlefield, Hoffman, Rosen, Restall, Hall and Vindall. From the junior class Ford, Humphrey, Zweidinger, Walker, Weckwerth and Kisker were awarded letters and will be available for another year of competition. Three letters were awarded to sophomores, Hardon, Fisher and Lanoue.

Norm Ford, the crack backstroker, was chosen by his teammates to lead the 1931 swimming team. He captained his freshman team, and was an outstanding star on that aggregation. Although he specializes in the backstroke, he is a sprint swimmer of ability, and may be used on the relay team.

is everywhere...don't put your foot in it!

THE persistent ringworm parasite that causes "Athlete's Foot" thrives wherever many people walk barefooted, it lurks on the wet edges of swimming pools and in showers, it abounds in the gym.

It may attack your toes—for surveys show that in some colleges more than 50% of the students have it!

Watch for a slight reddeuing of the skin between the smaller toes—a cracking in the toepits—a dead, white moistness—these are the danger signs that may lead to torment later on.

Fight "Athlete's Foot" with Absorbine Jr. Douse Absorbine Jr. generously on the feet

after every exposure to publicly used floors. It kills the "Athlete's Foot" parasite and prevents its spread.

Keep a bottle of Absorbine Jr. in your loeker—another in your room and at the first sign of itehing or irritation use it.

And, of course, you know that for years thousands have found Absorbine Jr. unequalled for sore muscles, aches and sprains, bruises, burns, cuts and abrasions. Always have a bottle handy. Of course you do!

At all druggists'—$1.25.

TWO OUTSTANDING BOOKS OF SPECIAL VALUE

Educational Objectives of Physical Activity

By Frederick Rand Rogers, State Dir. of Phys. Ed., New York. The book closes with charts illustrating the text. Bound in cloth. Size 4 1-2 x 7 1-2. Price $1.00.

The Deeper Meaning of Physical Education

By Dr. Eugen Matthias, Professor of the Biology of Physical Education, University of Munich. Translated by Carl L. Schrader, Mass. State Supervisor of Physical Education. Uniform in size with Dr. Rogers' book.

"But there are no pictures in the books"

Price $1.00.

The above statement was made to us by the buyer of a prominent wholesale house when we suggested that he take a large quantity of both "Educational Objectives of Physical Activity" by F. R. Rogers and "The Deeper Meaning of Physical Education" by Eugen Matthias. However, the rush of orders for them refutes the proposition that pictures are vitally necessary to the sale of such books as these two.

Such men as Dr. John Dewey, Dr. Jesse Feiring Williams, Dr. Ellwood Cubberly, Prof. N. H. Dearborn immediately expressed their interest in the books.

Send for Illustrated Catalogue of books in Athletics, Games and all phases of Physical Education.

CLASS OF 1930

Is one turns over the last leaf of this book dedicated to the class of 1930, and as each Senior comes to the last page of his college career, it is fitting to glance over the course of events for old times sake. The many depicted in picture and writing in the Massasoit only serve to point out with just pride the contribution the class of 1930 has made to the college life during the past four years.

May great success and prosperity continue to be yours throughout the coming years in whatever your chosen work may be.

When you return to your Alma Mater for visits and class rennions we shall be glad to see you again.
